

Rib place handling hungry crowds at this year's CNE

Special

Posted Aug 20, 2010 by ■ KJ Mullins

The CNE in Toronto is known for food. The Food Building is always packed. For the second year in a row Fall-Off-The-Bone has been on hand to tackle hungry crowds.

Sometimes the finding the best deal at the Food Building leaves a visitor still hungry when the plate is empty. That's not the case with the $4.99 Luncheon Special at Fall-Off-The-Bone.

Expecting one or two ribs I was surprised when five meaty ribs were put in front of me along with crispy home-made potato chips. The meat was spot on tender and as messy as ribs are supposed to be. My only complaint would be that only one napkin comes with the platter, you need a hand full!

The man behind the counter said that this is the second year that Fall-Off-The-Bone has been at the CNE. This year they are seeing if the response is as good as last year's. If it is then Toronto residents can rejoice-a diner will be appearing soon in the city.

From years of sampling different meals housed at the Food Building I know where I will be heading next year but I will make sure I have someone with me to share the tender ribs there simply was too much to finish on my own!

■ KJ Mullins

Fall Off The Bone is hit at this year's CNE

■ KJ Mullins

At the CNE

Canadian National Exhibition Blog

Experience The EX through the perspectives of various CNE personalities

My First Day at the 2010 CNE

I went to pick up my tickets and smartphone from the CNE on Monday evening after work, and thought I would take a little stroll around the grounds. The same feelings that I had when I was a kid soon came rushing over me – pure happiness! I love the CNE. I'm so excited to be chosen as one of the official CNE bloggers this year and look forward to sharing more of the excitement with my 9 year old son next week.

My first stop after getting my tickets was the Food Building near the GO train/streetcar entrance. The Cobblestone Farms BBQ "fall off the bone" baby back ribs dinner special caught my eye – for only $9.99 – it included a generous serving of amazing home made ribs, thick cut potato chips and coleslaw. YUMM – highly recommended. I asked the manager – Tim if he had any restaurants, and sadly he said that he doesn't – so if you want to try his ribs you have to go to the CNE!

I could get used to blogging about Food at the CNE! More stories coming soon!

Written by: Colleen Davidson

Posted: August 26, 2010

<http://blog.theex.com/2010/08/26/my-first-day-at-the-2010-cne/>

